

Journal Jumble

Directions:

1. Cut out each sales transaction listed on the next page and place them in a pile.
2. Mix up the sheets of paper.
3. Based on your knowledge, place the transaction in the appropriate “journal type” column.

Cash Receipts Journal	Sales Journal	Purchases Journal	Cash Payments Journal

Journal Jumble

Transactions: Fifth Avenue Clothing

A credit card purchase of $450 was made to buy rain boots from a local wholesaler.

A customer purchased an outfit for $35 in cash.

Rent for the building was paid with $700 in cash.

Rebecca used her credit card to purchase a $110 purse from Fifth Avenue Clothing.

Ad World paid $300 payment for advertisements for the store.

Ariel paid another $100 installment on her wedding dress purchase.

The Fifth Avenue Clothing downtown location purchased new mannequins for $800 with a company credit card.

Fifth Avenue Clothing used $500 in its cash account to purchase light fixtures for the downtown location.

Arnold made his final $25 payment on his tuxedo purchase made on account.

A credit account was used to purchase a $34 makeup kit and $200 handbag.

The clothing hangers and display racks were purchased with $750 taken out of the company cash account.

The store provided Jerome with five pairs of shoes for $250 with the promise they will be paid for in full within six months.

The new company credit card was used to make an unexpected purchase of a new door after a storm damaged the building.

Fifth Avenue Clothing provided bridesmaid dresses for Hannah after she paid for them with her AveBucks credit card.

The store purchased 20 pairs of the Stillah dress from its supplier. The full payment for the purchase is due in 60 days.

A customer paid for his purchase of three shirts, five pairs of pants, two pairs of shoes and three pairs of socks with a $100 bill.