Computers in Business

Tech Literacy

COMPUTERS IN BUSINESS

One of the most important capital resources for American businesses is computers and related technology products. New technology constantly makes older technology obsolete, so businesses must keep their computer-dependent employees equipped with efficient computers that work with the latest technology.

The popularity of e-commerce, the buying and selling over the Internet, has increased the demand for website design, maintenance, and support. Businesses also use the Web to create business-to-business relationships that support the purchase and sale of products and services. Computers provide important links between businesses.

THINK CRITICALLY

Explain why computers and related technology are increasingly important to the U.S. economy.
